Baccalaureate to Seminary Students.

Prof. Churchill delivered the baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of the Seminary Sunday afternoon at the Chapel before a large audience. During the services a choir composed of students under the direction of Mr. Fressé, rendered two anthems.

The subject of the sermon was "The Secret of Power in the Christian Ministry," the text being 1-8. Among other things Prof. Churchill said:

"A profound lesson of faith and hope and courage is to be learned from the scene in that upper chamber in Jerusalem. In these last words that ever uttered on earth, he reveals his last thought concerning the church of the future and its ministering servants. His farewell utterance contains the very secret of the influence which his ministers are to exert upon men, 'Ye shall be witnesses unto me,' is to be their work. 'Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you,' that is to be strength of the inspiration in which their work is to be accomplished.

"There is an obvious fitness at the present hour in considering the secret of power in the Christian ministry. It is a two-fold secret. Where is it to be found? First in a knowledge and love of the truth in which the ministry is to bear witness; and secondly, in the character of the witnesses. We know Jesus as we know our friends—through their self-revelation in their language and their actions. Four of the personal friends of Jesus have given to the world a record of all that he said and did that the world needs to know. The Christian church has believed for centuries that the record is authentic, trustworthy and true. In those words of spirit and of life the soul of the Unseen Christ speaks to his brother men to-day.

"The truth means for us the person and work of Jesus Christ. Nothing diviner than Christ has yet been seen on earth. Christ appeals to the conscience and experience of men for the verification of his words. We have not seen Christ, but we have felt his power in life. We believe and we bear witness that he is the holy one of God.

"The comforter, the spirit of truth, witnesses spirits that Jesus is the very truth of God. Thus it is that the truth as it is in Jesus becomes our own truth, is never really ours until we have it as a possession in personal experience. With the truth made our own we speak to men of Christ with the power and accent of conviction. Such a conviction concerning Jesus the truth lies at the very foundation of ministerial power. Our religion consists not in things as we are in doubt of and try to believe, but in the few great truths we are assured of and have no effort in believing.

"Jesus Christ is a living Savior in the present. He is still the unfailing source of spiritual power. Our age is as much the golden age as the Pentecostal time. All that any age has possessed to fit the church and its ministry for the task of witnessing unto Christ this age possesses. The power is always present. What we need is a faith strong enough to lay hold of it and use it.

"The second element in the secret of ministerial power is in the character of the witnesses. The influence of a Christian life is even more than the power of uttering the truth. Christianity starts from the unbounded admiration—the person of Jesus Christ. All true progress in the Christian life is made through the admiring imitation of our great exemplar.

"The ideal of the ministry is changing. The bustling activity of the times is a condition for forcing a minister into a merely professional piety. That was a needed petition of Dr. John Hall of New York at a meeting of the these young men should overturn their piety. We must learn to secure a higher and calmer sort of activity. Renounce the ambition of becoming distinguished for a noisy activity. The quality of work suffers. Reduce the quantity to improve the quality. What is the safeguard? Work must wait on worship.

"Thank God! Christ's speaking is growing clearer and man is finding the point clearer to him. He sees it not through science, or philosophy, or ritual, or dogma. He sees it as life—as life in Christ. His conquering symbol is the cross. The cross of Christ! never lose sight of it."

Funny Bits.

Teacher: An axiom is a self-evident truth. "Whatever goes up is sure to come down." Is that an axiom? Boy: "Gesso—unless folks is talkin' about the price of coal."—Good News.

Mrs. Callahan: "I want to get a pair of shoes for the little boy." Shopman: "French kid?" Mrs. C. (indignantly): "Indade not! He's my own son—born and bred near Tammany Hall."—Harlem Life.

Johnny—"I tell you, my mother is just lightning when she gets after you with a slipper." Tommy—"Naw; you are off. Lightning never strikes twice in the same place."—Puck.

"What is syntax?" was asked of a class under examination. "A tax on whisky" was the reply of one student. And the teacher thought he deserved the mark of 100 per cent.—Chicago Standard.

Sunday school Teacher—"Children, do you know the house that is open to all—to the poor, the rich, the sad, the happy; to man and to woman, to the old and to the young? Do you know the house I mean?" Little Johnnie—"Yeth, ma'am, I know." Sunday school teacher—"Well, Johnny, what house is it?" Little Johnnie—"The station house."—Halo.

The following conversation is given as having occurred between a plain-spoken Scotchwoman and her pastor: "Good morning, Janet. I am sorry to hear you didn't like my preaching on Sunday. What was the reason?" Janet—"I had three verra guid reasons, sir. Firstly, ye read the sermon; secondly, ye didn't read it well; and, thirdly, it wasn't worth readin' at a'!"

Simply Doing Justice

To Tell What Hood's Sarsaparilla Has Done

Malaria—Impure Blood—Ulcer on the Ankle Cured.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.: 'I believe it will be nothing more than simple justice for me to write a few lines to you in praise of Hood's Sarsaparilla, as it has been a great blessing not only to me, but to my wife. We have had malaria in its worst form. We have been a week at a time with a doctor in attendance every day, but we did not seem to get any permanent relief. Finally, I was induced by a friend to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before we had taken one bottle we commenced to improve. After taking three bottles we were entirely free from malaria.'

I have been troubled with humor in my blood from my youth. I was laid up a whole year with an ulcer on my ankle. I went to the Massachusetts General Hospital at Boston twice a week during a period of three months. The attending surgeon advised me to give up my work and take all the comfort I could. It was said that they had treated at the hospital and the doctors advised that I have my limb amputated. I would not consent to this, and began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for my blood. I have taken a dozen bottles of it and am now as Sound as Ever.

I can do as big a day's work as any of my neighbors. I attribute all this to Hood's Sarsaparilla. I shall always speak in the highest terms of it and would recommend it to all similarly afflicted." CYRUS G. UPHAM, Needham, Mass.

Clean Streets.
One of the most important results
that the A. V. I. S. hopes to accomplish is that of cleaner streets. And in this desire it is recognized that only by making as many citizens as possible interested in this same result can anything like satisfactory improvement be made. It is surprising how careless people are about the little things of cleanliness. How many of our readers opened their letters as they left the Post Office this morning, and threw the envelopes away? Away where do you suppose? Into a corner perhaps you thought, but supposing another careless one threw his in the same place,
soon a pile has accumulated and soon a dirty corner is made. And all for a little carelessness. Do let us watch ourselves this summer and see if this dirty habit of cluttering our streets can't be broken.

Summer Outings for the Poor.
Can't you do something toward this good work this summer? It will cost only a very small sum to give a poor child a week's outing in the country and Andover has many people who can afford to do it.

Editorial Clinders.
Andover is entirely given up to society events this week and will be next,
until after Thursday.
We don't know who is happiest over the warm weather, the farmer or the sweet girl graduate. Anyway it is good for all of us.

The beautiful mountain laurel, that grows in abundance in several places along the "River road", is just now in its prime.
Our North Andover correspondent quotes Mayor Matthews in support of his position in regard to Waterworks for that town. Of course so long as Mayor Matthews is a democrat the opinion cannot have much weight with our friend.
We regret having to announce that
Prof. C. H. Moore's call to Chicago University has finally proven more attractive than the work at Phillips Academy, and at the close of the school year the Academy will lose an efficient teacher and Andover a highly esteemed citizen.

Theological Seminary Anniversary.
Another anniversary of the Theological Seminary, the eighty-sixth, has passed under most auspicious circumstances and in a most successful manner. The exercises were all well attended by townpeople, alumni and others. Sunday afternoon marked the beginning of the commencement exercises, when Prof.
Churchill preached a very able and interesting baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class. An abstract of this sermon will be found on Page 2 of to-day's TOWNSMAN.
Monday evening at the Chapel occurred
the ordination as missionaries of Samuel Jr. and Egbert S. Ellis of the Senior class. The council met in the afternoon, Rev. W. A. Keese of Lawrence being elected moderator and Rev. Geo.
F. Kenngott of Lowell scribe. The examination of both candidates resulted in a manner very satisfactory to the council and at the evening session the moderator stated that the council was unanimous in recommending the candidates for ordination. Invocation and scripture reading by Rev. F. W. Greene were followed, after singing a hymn, by the sermon,
which was delivered by Rev. S. C. Barlett, D.D. LL.D., ex-president of Dartmouth College and father of one of the young men. It was an exceedingly interesting and able discourse, the text being Romans 8:10. The historical achievements of missionaries in many foreign lands, and the great field still open to them were thoughts dwelt upon at considerable length. Prof. Smyth made the ordaining prayer and Rev.
Arthur Little, D.D., of Dorchester gave the charge. Rev. H. A. Stinson, D.D., of New York extended the right hand of fellowship to Mr. Bartlett, and Rev. F. E.
Kimrich, of South Framingham, to Mr.
Ellis. The concluding prayer was made by ex-President Bartlett, and his son pronounced the benediction after the doxology was sung. Mr. Bartlett will labor in Japan while Mr. Ellis will go to Eastern Turkey.
Tuesday and Wednesday morning were taken up with the different class examinations. On Tuesday evening a large audience gathered in the Chapel, the occasion being the eighty-third anniversary of the Society of Inquiry, the object of which is to awaken interest in missionary work.
After the organ voluntary by N. H.
Pride and singing by the congregation,
prayer was made by Rev. Frederic Palmer, and Samuel C. Bartlett, Jr., read from the scriptures. "The Lost Chord"
was then finely rendered by the Chapel choir. This year instead of several orations by different students, there was but one general oration by Rev. James L. Barton, President of Euphrates College. His address was on the subject
"Foreign Missions and some of the Social Problems and Methods of To-day," and it abounded with many interesting and instructive thoughts.
Wednesday afternoon the annual meeting of the alumni was held in the Chapel and there were present many ex-members of the institution, besides a large number of interested friends of the Seminary. Rev. Dr. Dunning of Boston was elected moderator and the following alumni committee was chosen for the ensuing year: Prof. W. H. Ryder, D.D., Revs. F. H. Page, Boston, Wm. J. Batt, Warrenville, H. P. Dewey, Concord, and
C. C. Carpenter, secretary.
The necrological report was presented by Rev. Mr. Carpenter and several of the audience spoke of deceased members,
with whom they had been acquainted.
A brief summary of the report follows:
Forty names are placed on the record of the dead for the year 1893-94, as against twenty-nine for 1892-93 and forty for 1891-92. The average age of these forty men is seventy-one years, eight months,
and fifteen days. Including two others who died in previous years, but were not reported, the average age would be seventy-two years and sixteen days. One had passed the age of ninety, thirteen were between eighty and ninety, seventeen were between seventy and eighty,
four between sixty and seventy, and only five below fifty.
Of the forty-two men recorded above,
twenty-six were full graduates, thirteen took a partial course, and three studied here as resident licentiates. Eleven were educated at Amherst College, eight at Dartmouth, six at Yale, four at Harvard,
three each at Bowdoin and Middlebury,
two at Williams, and one each at Brown,
Oberlin, Western Reserve, and Yankton;
one alone had failed to take the college course. Two were professors in the Seminary—one just putting off the harness of long and honorable warfare, the other just girding it on with the brightest prospect of signal service to the institution. The late Profs. Gulliver and Pease are here referred to.
The question for the afternoon's discussion was "The Ministry and Social Reform," the four speakers devoting their attention to different phases of the topic. Rev. D. N. Beach of Cambridge port was the first speaker. In concluding his somewhat lengthy article, Mr.
Beach said:
"He saw certain encouraging signs:
showed how the very gravity of the political, industrial and social situation are the preface of the turning tide; uttered a solemn warning against sociological and economic quackery; and, from the example of such ministers as Washington Gladden, Newman Smyth, Dr. Moxon and others, showed how much the university can do. Let us, he said, by all the means in our power, deepen within ourselves, spread abroad in the community, and make forceful and creative for the wonderful years which are just before us, the new psychology, the new sociology, the new economic, the new civilics, in fact, the new and yet scarcely definable life which God is bringing to the birth in our time."

Rev. P. S. Moxon, D.D., of Springfield,
continued the discussion and among other things said:
"If we would abolish the social problem, we must banish the gospel of Christ.
Jesus Christ is the great troublemaker of the earth. Where there is no Christianity there is no social problem. Christian ministers are the expounders and exponents of Christianity, and therefore have to do with social problems. Social reform is the improvement of the social condition of man. To save humanity you must save man, and to save man you must save humanity. Social reforms must be secured through the improvement of social ideas, customs and character. It is not uncommon to find a moral man immoral in his business. The mission of the gospel is to penetrate the organic life of men with the morality of Christ. These things require concerted action, organized attack."
Rev. Newman Smyth, D.D., of New Haven, spoke rather on a single sphere of this great question, the problem of civil well being and he said that "The problem of the day is not, as once, how to preserve the nation as a whole, but how to preserve its central points, its herve centres, its great cities, to a pure government. The tendency of the day in the great cities is toward a government not by the people, but by a class demoralizing and unfit to govern.
It is cowardice on the part of the better class of the community that such a condition is possible. Organized, concentrated effort can only do away with this evil. Local politics should be separated from state and national politics. We should work for practical ends in our work as Christian ministers." Rev. H. A. Stinson of New York was the last speaker, and he brought out especially the work of the clergy in social reform. He pointed out the danger which threats the ardent worker in practical affairs of allowing the avocation to overshadow the vocation. Such ministers often have great success in the special work they have undertaken, but preach to empty houses. Such devotion to an idea to the loss of gospel teaching is to be deprecated.
In the evening there was the usual
very enjoyable reception at Bartlett Chapel given by the ladies of the faculty to the Alumni and other friends of the Seminary.
Yesterday was the closing day of what proved a most pleasant commencement season. At 10:30 the Chapel was well filled with people to listen to the anniversary addresses by six members of the graduating class. It was a general opinion that the addresses were good and the result of careful thought and study. The program was as follows:
Music.
An Ideal of Education.
ALEXANDER PHOENIX BOURNE.
William Robertson Smith.
JOHN JAMES WALKER.
Music.
A Forgotten Element in Democracy.
HARLAN PAGE DOUGLASS.
The Christo-centric Reconstruction of Theology.
CHARLES ETHELBERT MCKINLEY.
Music.
Christianity and National Life.
SAMUEL COLCORD BARTLETT, JR.
The Motive of the Ministry.
BURTON SMITH OILMAN.
The following received diplomas:
Ernest L. Baker, Enfield, N. H.; Samuel C. Bartlett, Jr., Hanover, N. H.; Louis F. Berry, Cambridge; Alexander
P. Bourne, New York, N.Y.; Charles A.
Brook, Somerville; Edward C. Camp,
Springfield; Charles Clark, East Huf-
bardston; Harlan P. Douglass, Grinnell, Iowa; Egbert S. Ellis, Portland, Me.;
Burton S. Gilman, Randolph, Vt.; Owen
E. Hardy, West Farmington, Me.; Vernon C. Harrington, Middlebury, Vt.; John R. Horne, Jr., Berlin Falls, N. H.;
Albert V. House, Crest, Neb.; Frank L.
Luce, Marion; Percival F. Marston,
Thomaston, Ct.; Angus M. McDonald,
Bath, Me.; Alexander F. McDonald, Bath,
Me.; Daniel McIntyre, Dover, N. H.;
Charles E. McKinley, Anita, Iowa; Jesse
G. Nichols, Merrimac; Henry H. Noyes,
South Freeport, Me.; Henry E. Oxnard,
Portland, Me.; Hapet M. Pillsbousian, Harport, Turkey; John J. Walker, Amherst; Frank L. Whipple, Hamilton.
At 1 o'clock the annual dinner was served in Bartlett Chapel, over one hundred partaking. Rev. D. T. Fluke, D. D., of Newburyport, president of the Board of Trustees, presided and opened the post-prandial exercises in his usual familiar and appropriate manner, introducing the following speakers: Prof.
Smyth, Dr. A. H. Quint of the Board of Visitors, Rev. Dr. Wood of England, Rev.
J. G. Vose of Providence one of the Trustees, Rev. Wm. W. Subb of Fall
River, Prof. Whitney of Floyd College, Wisconsin, Dr. A. E. Dunning of the Congregationalist, Rev. D. Birdie of Ablorton, one of the examining committee,
Rev. Robert Hume a missionary from India, and Rev. Nehemiah Boynton of Boston. The speeches were unusually bright and interesting.

A Pretty Wedding.
BERGSTROM-BARNARD.
In the presence of only relatives and immediate friends, Miss Gertrude Barnard, daughter of J. W. Barnard, and Mr. Francis Bergstrom of Minneapolis were married last evening at 8:30 o'clock.
Dr. Bancroft of Phillips Academy and Rev. F. R. Shipman performed the ceremony. The wedding took place at the residence of the bride's parents on High Street. The house was prettily decorated and mountain laurel, daisies, white peonies, and ferns formed a beautiful bower beneath which the couple stood during the ceremony. The maid of honor was Miss
and the best man, Rev. W. C. Gordon of Michigan City. The ushers were C. W.
Paradise of town, Dr. W. E. Fay of Boston, and Henry W. Barnard, brother of the bride.
The bride was attired in a gown of white corded silk, and carried a bouquet of roses. Miss Paradise wore a dress of yellow china silk.
After the wedding, from 7 to 10, a reception was held, and a large number of friends, including many from out of town, called and extended congratulations. Tanner of Haverhill catered. Mr.
and Mrs. Bergstrom left on the 9:40 train for a tour of a few weeks through New England, after which they will journey slowly to Minneapolis, which is to be their home.
Mr. Bergstrom is a graduate of the class of 1884 at Phillips, of Yale 1888, and Harvard Law School 1892. He is now practising law in Minneapolis.
Children's Sunday.
Children's day was generally observed last Sunday in most of the churches in town. At the Baptist Church in the morning Rev. Mr. Haskell spoke interestingly to the children on the Bible and in the evening there was a Sunday concert, the subject being "Christ our King." One feature, not down on the program, was the blowing out of a fuse
and the consequent going out of the electric lights, but the superintendent wisely kept the concert moving and soon matters were fixed satisfactorily.
Besides a children's sermon by the pastor, the Free Church had a very pleasing concert in the evening on the subject
"The happy Jubilee." Recitations, singing and exercises by the primary departments made up a very enjoyable program.
The children occupied the front seats
at the South Church Sunday morning, and Rev. Mr. Shipman spoke to them in a very interesting manner. The Sunday School concert in the afternoon brought out a large audience. The children gave recitations and there was singing and a pleasing address by Mr. Snow, secretary of the Seamen's Friend Society. There were also appropriate exercises at other churches.
Annual Procession of St. Augustine's Societies.
The annual June procession of the children and different societies of St.
Augustine's Church, in honor of the Sacred Heart of Jesus, took place Sunday afternoon and it attracted a large crowd of spectators, many being from out of town. The procession formed in the following order on Essex Street: M. T.
Welch, marshal, Andover Brass Band,
Father Ryan and altar boys; about 100 men of the Sacred Heart Society, P. A.
McNally prefect, 125 members of the confirmation class, 30 Ft. Ryan's cadets
J. McNally prefect, 150 Sunday School children, 72 children of Mary, 100 young ladies of Sacred Heart Society, the Archconfraternity, and young ladies of the Sunday School, Fr. Lynch with attendants. The route of march was Essex to Elm Square to Central Street to Brook
to the church.
It made a very pretty sight, the children and young ladies being dressed in white, some carrying flowers and banners. After the procession solemn high Vespers were celebrated at the church,
Rev. Fr. Lynch acting as celebrant.
Bishop Brady was present and administered the sacrament of confirmation to 125 children. At the conclusion of the services a temperance pledge was taken by the present confirmation class from Fr. Ryan, a practice followed by him
when a class is confirmed.

John Fleming Drowned in the Shawheen.

The first drowning accident of the season occurred in the Shawheen River last Saturday afternoon about 1.30, just above the dam at the Abbott Village mills, when John Fleming, a respected young man 17 years of age, lost his life.

Fleming and a young fellow named Wm. Morrissey were out in a canoe which capsized, throwing both into the water. Neither could swim, but Morrissey managed to get ashore, which was only a short distance. Fleming, however, was not so fortunate and began to sink. Tom Stewart, who was walking down the bank, saw him struggling and quickly to the place, reached for Fleming, but unfortunately could not get a hold of him and he went down for the last time. Boats were obtained and about an hour later the body was brought to the surface by J. F. Morse, who used a grappling hook.

The deceased was an employee at the Smith & Dove mills, and lived with his grandmother and sister in the village. The remains were viewed by Coroner Howe of Lawrence, after which they were delivered to undertaker Messer. The funeral was held Monday afternoon, Rev. F. A. Wilson of the Free Church officiating. There were several pretty floral tributes including an anchor and an oak. The bearers were Frank Carter, Geo. Gaudin, John May, Wm. Morrissey, James Poland and Alex. McLaughlin. Burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

The musicale given by Mr. Downs on Friday evening in Abbot Hall was a very charming occasion. The participants were all pupils of Mr. Downs, with the exception of a few of the Fidelio Society who have only had the advantage of chorus drill under his instruction. The programme, which was artistic in conception and make-up, consisted of vocal and instrumental solos, duets, and choruses. The audience was large and appreciative, and we heartily congratulate Abbot Academy as well as Mr. Downs upon the auspicious opening of the Commencement exercises of 1894.

Grand Officers were Present.

Seven candidates were initiated into Lincoln Lodge A. O. U. W. at Monday evening's meeting and there was a very large attendance, including grand officers, several members from Pacific Lodge of Lawrence and about twenty-five from Burdett Lodge of Haverhill. The degree staff of the latter lodge exemplified the second degree with the aid of stereoscopic views and other paraphernalia in a manner which much pleased those present. After this ceremony refreshments were served, music and speeches following. The lodge felt complimented in having present Grand Master Workman Mitchell of Salem, also Grand Officers Ingalls and Frank W. Bayley of Boston. The latter is also editor of the Anchor and Shield, the official organ of the order. These gentlemen all made interesting remarks. Notwithstanding hard times Lincoln Lodge keeps up the boom in new members. Two new applications were filed Monday night.

Mass Association of Relief Officers, which association met in Lowell, Wednesday. Mayor Pickman presided at the annual dinner.

Sparks from a locomotive set fire to the roof of Dr. Shattuck's residence yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock. An alarm was given which called the hose company to the spot and in an incredibly short time a stream was on the roof. It was soon extinguished. The loss from fire cannot be large, but water went through the ceiling damaging the furniture and carpets considerably.

William J. Lawrence, oldest son of William and Mary Lawrence, died early Sunday morning after a lingering illness. He was born in this town about thirty years ago, but went West a few years since. He was located near Allensburg, Wash., at which place he contracted the disease which was the cause of his death. The funeral services were held at the home of his parents Tuesday, Rev. T. A. Hodgdon officiating. All resident Odd Fellows, as well as delegations from his lodge and encampment in Lowell, were present, and three members of Veritas Lodge and three members of the Encampment acted as bearers. A quartette consisting of H. A. Beeley, W. B. Pearson, Carl Hoffman and Eddie Miller rendered selections. There were many offerings, one of which, a beautiful pillow, was a contribution from Ballardvale members of the I. O. O. F., thirty roses from the Literary League of the M. E. Church, a bouquet, Mr. Almon Moody; bouquet, Dr. and Mrs. Shattuck; bouquet, a friend; bouquet, Mrs. R. Gibson; bouquet, Mr. P. J. Scott.

A Card.

We wish to extend our sincere thanks to the many friends and neighbors who have been so kind during the last illness of our son William, and particularly to the members of the Odd Fellows whose many kind offices we deeply appreciate.

FARM FIELD AND GARDEN*REARING DOMESTIC TURKEYS.

Simple Directions by Which This May Be Done With Profit.

A turkey will prove an admirable sitter frequently. But our young domestic turkey hens are uncertain and inconstant at times. For this reason the Cochon or Brahma hen is better for the foster mother of turkey poults, at least in the early season.

If the hen turkey be used, she will cover more eggs and perhaps bring up her brood as well as the other, but if the attempt be made to get the poults out very early in the spring common hens will prove the handiest and safest to set turkey eggs under at first.

Several turkey hens should be set at the same time, so that the chicks of two hens may be given to one mother. One turkey will take care of 30 young with as much care as she manages half of that number. The hen that is released from maternal cares will very soon lay again and hatch a second clutch. In setting the hens they should not be near those that are to hatch later. They will sometimes abandon their nests to help take care of the chicks that they hear near them. When the poults appear, they should be left with the mother hen to attend to invariably. They are exceedingly delicate when first hatched and must not be handled. This is the time when the younglings will best take care of themselves if left severely alone, be it remembered.

From this time forward they may have all the clabbered milk they will eat, and the eggs and bread crumbs may be discontinued. Give, in addition, a little cooked cornmeal, increasing the proportion of this each week as the younglings grow older and able to bear it. Giving nothing but grain, either whole or ground, from the shell, will kill nineteen-twentieths of your brood.

After 2 months old the young ones may be set at liberty and allowed to follow the roamings of the hen mother. It is well at first not to let them out too early in the morning, while the dew is upon the grass. This chilly wet is an enemy to the tender young birds. They will gather in the pastures and fields during their daily wanderings fully one-half of all the sustenance they need. Feed them in the morning before they start away, and at night they will eat heartily of the grain supper you provide, and all of them will "come home to roost" at evening. Accustom them to this daily good cheer at nightfall, and they will always be on hand seasonably to partake of your hospitable bounty. From June to September they will in the main take care of themselves and benefit the farm by the havoc they make among the insects. They will "shoot the red" at about 3 months or less, and after this and their early molt (say at 4 months old) they will grow well, if fed well, and come to maturity in good season.

Advantages of Soiling.

The advantages of soiling or feeding animals largely or wholly on green forage crops in the barn instead of pasturing them are that less land is required to maintain a given number of animals, the food supply can be better regulated, the animals do not waste their energy in searching for food, and the manure can all be saved and applied to the soil. The arguments for partial soiling are that the amount of feed furnished by pastures is very irregular, being usually abundant and of good quality early in the season, but falling off later from droughts or early frosts. If soiling is to be practiced, it is important to have a succession of green fodders throughout the growing season, with each in its best stage of growth for feeding. There should be no breaks in the succession, and each crop should be used as nearly as possible at the time when it contains the largest amount of valuable food constituents.

The growing of a leguminous plant and a cereal together, as oats and peas, to be fed as green forage, has proved quite popular where it has been tried. The experiment stations in nearly every state have tested the adaptability of various fodder plants, leguminous and nonleguminous, and can furnish information as to selection, where seed can be obtained, etc. By a judicious selection of soiling crops not only can a much larger number of cows be kept on a given area of land, but the land may be brought into a higher state of cultivation and fertility, and much grain may be spared.

Protection From Lightning.

The weather bureau of the United States department of agriculture has recently issued a circular of information, by Mr. Alexander McAdie, upon "Protection From Lightning." It is designed to give valuable information to the people in regard to the character of lightning flashes, the danger to be apprehended from this source and the best methods of protection. In this connection it offers many practical suggestions and gives some very valuable instructions regarding the erection and use of lightning rods. According to data contained in this circular, lightning destroys $2,000,000 worth of buildings annually in the United States. The largest number of buildings struck are in New England, and it is stated that the risk of being struck by lightning in the country is five times greater than in the city.

Complaints of American Tobacco.

The United States consul at Bremen reports numerous complaints of American tobacco shipped in hogheads to Germany as not being equal to the samples drawn. The matter is so serious that it may ruin this heretofore flourishing export trade. The complaints relate particularly to the irregular packing, called "nesting," which is said to give proof of unreliable inspection in the United States.

TURNIPS AS A SECOND CROP.

The Expense Is Small and the Value Great as Feed For Stock.

Land from which crops are harvested early in the summer should not be allowed to go idle, and there is no second crop so valuable to grow on it as turnips. Even fair success can be had when the turnip seed are sown in the cornfield when it is worked the last time, writes a correspondent of American Cultivator. He says: The roots may not get large enough to sell in the market, but they will be of great value as feed for cattle and sheep, and also for home use. One of the best fall pastures for sheep, hogs and cattle is a cornfield from which the corn has been gathered and where young turnips are growing. The animals find great nourishment for a month or more in such a turnip patch. They will eat both cornstalks and turnips as the mood seizes them. After they have finished the field the roots left in the ground can be taken up some mild day in the fall and stored for winter use, but sheep and hogs, as a rule, will root down and eat the very ends of the roots.

The early flat varieties of turnips are profitable even when they sell for only 25 cents per bushel, and this price can be obtained for them at nearly any season of the year. They more often bring 30 or 40 cents per bushel, so that the labor is well paid. The rutabagas, or Swedes, cannot be grown so successfully as a second crop unless planted very early in the season, as they require considerable time to ripen before freezing weather. They are in more demand, however, and bring 50 cent per bushel when the flat turnips sell for half that. One thing about turnips is that if there is no profitable market for them they will always repay one for growing them as food for cattle.

The expense of growing the crop is small. The seed is cheap, and the land used would otherwise remain idle for the rest of the season. The land is already soft and mellow from the cultivation of the previous crop, and it only needs a surface plowing and harrowing. A few hundred pounds of bone dust should be spread over the land at this plowing, and when the land is mellow and smooth enough for the seed the work is nearly complete. Mark the land off and sow by hand or use a garden drill and planter that will drop the seeds carefully in rows, using less than a pound of seed to the acre.

This is the most economical way, although some prefer to scatter the seed broadcast, especially when it is to be used for pasturing cattle. When the seed is used in the cornfield, this broadcast sowing is probably better. The turnips should be cultivated as any other garden vegetable, thinning out to six or eight inches in the row. The harvesting must take place before a severe freeze in the fall can injure the plants.

Conquering the Grasshopper.

A machine used with success in Vermont carries two pans of galvanized iron 8 feet long, 16 inches wide, 4 feet deep and having a back 18 inches high. These pans are divided into three sections and fastened to wooden shoes, into which they are set about 1½ inches from the ground. The apparatus is attached to a pair of wheels with a long axle—one that runs through the wheels about 18 inches being the best. The pans are filled with an emulsion. Either kerosene and water, soft soap and water, chloride of lime and water or any of the soap powders are good. Each section of the pans holds about three gallons of water and has to be refilled for each catch. To catch the grasshoppers to advantage one should take them early in the morning or at sunrise, when they are on the grass, feeding. Two men and two horses are needed for each machine, as one horse could not stand it to drag the heavy apparatus through the grass, for one must drive fast to catch the little pests.

Why Tomatoes Rot.

The rotting of the first formed tomatoes before they fairly ripen indicates excess of nitrogenous fertilizer and deficiency of mineral, especially of potash. The tomato is full of seeds, and these require potash. A dressing of wood ashes or of potash salts should always be applied when planting tomatoes. It is better than stable manure, which makes large leaf growth with comparatively little fruit. Nitrate of soda, however, is good for both growth and fruitfulness. It also helps to make the crop ripen earlier than it otherwise would.

Items of Local Interest.

In recent experiments on 80 farms in different parts of Vermont alfalfa was very largely winter killed. It has, however, been successfully grown for seven years at the New York station at Geneva.

Soiling is a feature of a more intensive system of farming and finds more extensive application as the value of the land increases.

Nearly all our grass is cut too late, as a rule.

Sandy, warm land is in our northern states necessary for profitable melon growing. A few may be grown for home use on heavy land well fertilized, but they will not be so early nor so profitable as on lighter soil.

Use oilmeal first as feed and the resulting manure as fertilizer.

A New England Homestead subscriber tells that whitewash is an excellent preservative of shingles. The shingles are dipped into hot whitewash before laying.

The trial for dehorning cattle of Mr. Cross of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals resulted in the acquittal of the defendant.

An increase in duty on leaf tobacco suitable for wrappers has been made by the senate finance committee in the Wilson bill as it came from the house. This is said to be a concession to Senator Hill of New York. The increase was asked for by tobacco growers of Chemung and Onondaga counties.

FRUIT AND FLOWERS*VARIOUS FORMS OF ROCK WORK.

Employed in the Construction of the Rock and Alpine Garden.

A rockery is one of the forms of the natural garden. A rockery of any extent is formed generally into a sort of amphitheater. When no assistance is given by the undulations of the land, the soil is thrown from the center into rise beds around the outside. In these grounds water is almost necessary. It does not require more than two feet for general purposes, but quick running water is the essence of rocky scenery. Water plants require their full portion of soil below this level, but must be used sparingly, so that the beauty of the water itself may be revealed.

Rockeries are intended to develop plant life. They are arranged to hold soil for plants by suspending masses above masses, showing more plant life impressions in given space than any other style of arrangement. American Gardening illustrates and describes six forms used in rockery construction.

Rock walls are formed on the principles shown by Fig. A. Soil and plants are held on their surface by being built on the "pigeonhole" system. These vary in size and form. Rock walls are built to hold "pockets," which are really miniature tablelands. (See Fig. B.)

When earth is required to be held perpendicularly to a height of 20 feet, more or less, rock binders are used, as shown in Fig. C. The "ties" shown are cemented together into the wall, which prevents them from bulging out. Rock tables

ROCKERY CONSTRUCTIONS.

(see Fig. D) are used for specimen rock plants. Rock pillars are built to show plants suspended above each other in profusion. (See Fig. E.) Ferns are often very effective in these arrangements. Rock arches (Fig. F) show how plants are arranged to stand over pathways surrounding the visitor.

Rocks for plant growth should be of a soft nature for roots to cling to. These large rocks mixed with medium sized stones are convenient for building. The large flat stones are often useful to help hold the soil and plants in suspension above each other. Small stones are occasionally used around the edges of these large stones to hold the soil, as is shown in the rock table.

Hanging Baskets.

Only certain kinds of plants are suitable for hanging baskets. Such as are of low, compact growth, to cover the surface, and such as are of drooping or trailing habit, to hang over the sides, are best for the purpose. A writer in Vick's Monthly advises as follows: For the center use some graceful plant of upright growth. In setting the plants in hanging baskets a layer of moss at least one inch in depth should be spread over the bottom and sides. To have the plants bloom freely they should be hung where they will be exposed to the sun at least two hours every day, and in dry weather they need copious watering. A good plan is to dip the whole basket in water until it is thoroughly soaked. It can be allowed to drip before being again hung up.

Panicum variegatum is one of the most valuable plants for baskets or vases. It is a species of grass, with variegated foliage. The ivy leaved geraniums are adapted to hanging baskets. Charles Turner is a favorite variety of the ivy leaved geraniums. Nasturtiums are adapted to hanging baskets. All the varieties of oxalis are pretty grown in earthenware baskets, and wire baskets lined with bright green moss are especially suitable for the different varieties of tradescantia, or "wandering Jew."

A New Sweet Pea.

American Belle is the name given to a distinct new pea, which shows an important departure from the coloring and markings of all other varieties, being neither striped nor mottled, but spotted. The standard is clear, bright rose of uniform coloring; wings of crystal white, with bright purplish carmine spots. The flowers are large, of good substance and finely formed, while the standard does not have that tendency to droop so common in other large flowered varieties. Of such good substance are the flowers that they remain perfect and keep well in a bouquet for a long time, thus rendering this variety desirable for cut flowers. While it makes a splendid display when blossoming, its full beauty is not rightly appreciated until subjected to close examination, when the handsome markings and coloring are revealed. It belongs to the very early flowering class of sweet peas. While it is one of the very first to blossom, it is also a generous bloomer and continues bearing abundantly for a long season, showing a hardy and vigorous growth.

A Gentleman

Who formerly resided in Connecticut, but who now resides in Honolulu, writes: "For 20 years past, my wife and I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor, and we attribute to it the dark hair which she and I now have, while hundreds of our acquaintances, ten or a dozen years younger than we, are either gray-headed, white, or bald. When asked how our hair has retained its color and fullness, we reply, 'By the use of Ayer's Hair Vigor—nothing else.'"

Ayer's Hair Vigor, and very soon, it not only checked any further loss of hair, but produced an entirely new growth, which has remained luxuriant and glossy to this day. I can recommend this preparation to all in need of a genuine hair-restorer. It is all that it is claimed to be."—Antonio Alarun, Bastrop, Tex.

LOST THEIR TEMPER

Editor's Friends Resented Uncomplimentary Remarks.

A Hand-to-Hand Fight Ensued Between Opposing Factions and Furniture Was Smashed to Kindling Wood.

Boston, June 14.—There were wild and exciting scenes last night at an indignation meeting in the Hebrew quarter, called to protest against the veiled charges preferred by Professor Zelenko, in his paper, The Jewish Eagle, against the officers of the Sheltering Home.

Professor Zelenko, in recent issues of his paper, strongly hinted that the books of the institution were not reliable, and that all expenditures were not satisfactorily accounted for.

The professor, although he has only been in this country six months, has many friends among his countrymen. He was the interpreter for the party that undertook to rescue General Gordon at Khartoum, and served in the same capacity for Henry M. Stanley in Africa. He was challenged by the accused officers to appear at the meeting and prove his charges. He appeared, as did several hundred of his sympathizers. Their opponents were about equal in numbers.

President Shipley of the home was the first speaker. He made remarks complimentary to the editor. Immediately there was an uproar, and harmony was a missing factor the remainder of the evening. The president was obliged to give up the floor, and Secretary Barofsky undertook to speak. He charged Professor Zelenko with bringing a crowd of bums to create disorder. This caused a fusillade of groans and shouts of derision, and the bluecoats could not restore order for over half an hour.

An Exciting Struggle.

When the noise subsided, the chairman ordered the officers to clear the hall of all disorderly persons. The professor mounted the platform to defend himself. One section wanted him to speak in Hebrew, the chairman said he could allow only English. The dispute grew exciting, and the crowd made a rush for the platform. The professor and Secretary Barofsky elbowed, and after a struggle were separated. Policemen's clubs and canes were brought into play. Furniture was smashed to kindling wood, and the grand square piano was badly used in the melee.

The police sent for reinforcements, and one section of the crowd made a rush to extinguish the lights. The hall was almost in darkness when the opposing party came to the rescue and interfered. The riot prevailed for 30 minutes, and the meeting broke up amid deafening yells and the derisive cheering of the opposing forces.

Has Strong Backing.

BANGOR, Me., June 11.—At a meeting of the city water board Saturday, the proposition of F. H. Clergue and others to build a pulp mill at the water works dam here was considered. Mr. Clergue proposes to manufacture ground woodpulp for export, and expects that in view of the saving in railroad freights consequent on shipping direct from this port, he can build up a big trade. He also proposes to run the city's electric street lighting plant. Mr. Clergue is backed up by at least one Portland millionaire, and says he can begin work in 90 days.

Free Use of a Pistol.

BOSTON, June 14.—Diego La Donna, 23 years old, had a quarrel with Fortunato Armento, 26 years old, on North street. La Donna shot Armento in the small of the back, causing him to drop on the floor. A second shot went wild, and struck Luca Spina, in a section of the left arm. La Donna then stood over Armento and shot him through his left arm. Both the combatants have the reputation of being tough characters and very free with the use of the revolver. The wounded man will probably recover.

Tons of Ice Melted.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 11.—Fire destroyed three large icehouses owned by William Durfee, located on the shore of North Watuppa Pond, in a section of the city about two miles from City Hall. Yesterday there were 2000 tons of ice in the buildings, valued at $5000. There is very little insurance on it, and it is thought that more than half will be a loss. During the progress of the fire a number of horses were released from a nearby barn. One of them fell and broke a leg and had to be shot.

Fashionable Folks Object.

PROVIDENCE, June 14.—H. W. Cottrell and F. W. Mace, traveling evangelists, hired a vacant lot in a fashionable section of this city, and pitched a gospel tent. The protests of residents of the neighborhood have been unheeded, but a petition for a writ of injunction to prevent them from holding meetings will be filed.

Sought Death by Suicide.

NEWPORT, R. I., June 14.—Mrs. Julia Harrington tried to commit suicide last evening by walking out into the water beyond her depth. She was rescued by Daniel Sullivan, whom she implored to allow her to accomplish her end. She said her home had been sold and she had nothing to live for.

Barrett to be Tried for Murder.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 11.—The Middlesex grand jury has found a bill for murder in the first degree against William Barrett, the alleged murderer of James Farrar, the Lincoln farmer, on May 17. He will be arraigned this week.

Moonshiner Sentenced.

HARTFORD, June 14.—Poplin, the Waterbury moonshiner, was sentenced to six months in state prison and to pay a fine of $1000. Wiseman was discharged. Archimedes, the leader of the gang, jumped his bonds some time ago.

Dust to Dust.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., June 13.—The body of Cyrus W. Field, Jr., arrived here from New York yesterday, and was taken directly to the old cemetery, where burial took place in the old Andrews lot.

Crew and Cargo Saved.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 14.—Fishing schooner Joseph Woolley went ashore yesterday on Race Point. The crew and cargo of lobsters were taken off. The Woolley will be a total loss.

Her Clothing Caught Fire.

WALTHAM, Mass., June 14.—Mrs. Mary Hobbs, 70 years old, while building a fire in the stove, had her clothing ignited and was so severely burned that she died a few hours later.

WEATHER-CROP BULLETIN.

Report of the Agricultural Bureau For the Week Ending June 15.

BOSTON, June 12.—The following crop bulletin was issued by the New England branch of the weather bureau for the week ending June 11:

There is some complaint in central and northern Maine of the seeds rotting in the ground. One correspondent in Aroostook county reports that he hears of few cases of potatoes rotting, but as those in his 33-acre field are all coming well, he thinks the trouble is not general or serious. The cool weather of all the first part of the week has checked most crops, and corn looks very poor; oats and potatoes have felt the cold weather also. The feed in pastures is first class, and the grass crop promises well. Some hoeing has been done in all sections. Fruit prospects continue encouraging.

Some potatoes are yet to be planted in New Hampshire, and many fields of corn for the silo have not been put in. Field corn that was planted early looks yellow and small, but has made good growth the last three days. Other early planted vegetables are pushing ahead. There seems to be plenty of feed in the pastures.

Grass is growing very well in Vermont, and pastures are generally good. The night temperatures have averaged very low, and it has been altogether too cold for rapid growth of field crops.

In Massachusetts the crops generally have been very quick to feel the effects of the present warm weather. Corn is growing fast, after having been replanted three times in some instances. The earliest planted potatoes are growing very luxuriantly, some fields being budded and the tops nearly covering the ground now. The prospect is good for berries of all sorts. In Middlesex county peas are reported as never looking better. Grass is doing well and a fair crop is promised.

The cool, cloudy weather has not produced so unfavorable an effect on crops in Rhode Island as in the more northern districts. Corn has grown slowly, but did not fail to come fairly well, and is now pushing ahead. Potatoes are looking well. Apple prospects are fair. The hay crop will not be large, and in some places is reported light. Strawberries are ripening, but the crop will probably be smaller than last year.

The week has been more favorable in Connecticut than in the northern states, and crops have grown fairly well, although corn and tobacco need high temperature and sunshine more like the last three days. Quite a good many pieces of corn and potatoes are being replanted because of seed rotting. Early potatoes are showing splendidly, and most fields have been hoed. All fruits look nicely.

SHOCKING FATALITY.

A Fire Chief Meets Death While in the Performance of His Duties.

NEWTON, Mass., June 12.—A terrible accident occurred here yesterday, whereby Henry L. Bixby, the popular chief of the Newton fire department, lost his life, and his driver received probably fatal injuries.

The department was responding to box 23 shortly after 3 o'clock. Between West Newton and Newtonville, on Brookside avenue, the street is very narrow. An electric car stopped just as the department was coming down the street, and an accident drove out of a side street, thoroughly blocking up one side.

The chemical engine, in the lead, got safely by on the other side. District Chief W. B. Randlett turned the corner suddenly, and in his efforts to avoid the car he struck a pole, throwing him out and demolishing his wagon. Chief Bixby came tearing along just then and endeavored to avoid the wreck of the assistant district chief's wagon, but struck the wreck with terrific force.

He fell on his head, and Driver P. A. Hanson fell on top of him. The horse was thrown several feet into the air, and the wagon was smashed to kindling wood. The chief was taken to the truck house near by, and asked to be sent home. Physicians were called and pronounced him uninjured, but last night at 8:30 he breathed his last. Driver Hanson was taken to the Newton Cottage hospital, where he lies in a dangerous condition.

Chief Bixby was 50 years old and was chief of the Newton department since 1878. He was born in Framingham, and has been a fire fighter since his boyhood. He was president of the Firemen's Relief association and a prominent member of the National association. He was also a Mason. He leaves a widow, two sons and two daughters.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., June 14.—The second annual road race, under the auspices of the Massachusetts Cycle club, was witnessed by nearly 10,000 people. The race was won by A. Ostiguy, whose time was 82:40. G. A. McEdward was given second prize. The first time prize was won by F. A. Landry. The distance of the race was 17.14 miles.

Each Held in $5000 Bonds.

BOSTON, June 11.—Dr. Mary Bell, for alleged malpractice in causing the death of Angelina Gerrette, and John W. Houghtby, her alleged aider and abettor, were granted a continuance until June 19, and the bail was fixed at $5000 for each of them.

Investigation Unnecessary.

PROVIDENCE, June 14.—There will be no investigation into the cause of the accident on the New England road Tuesday night. Kate Feeney, operator at Stillwater, has confessed that it was her fault, and she was immediately discharged.

Work of Incendiaries.

WOBURN, Mass., June 14.—The large stable on the estate of Edward A. Dow was burned by an incendiary fire this morning. Several horses were either burned in the stable or removed by the incendiaries before the stable was fired. Loss, $8000.

Mangled by a Train.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 14.—George F. Richardson, a prominent citizen, while attempting to cross over a track was struck by a train. His right arm was cut off, and he received other injuries. His recovery is doubtful.

Two Serious Charges.

Several of the former members of Wynona Lodge I. O. G. T. are considering the question of reassembling and forming a new lodge. Should such a step be taken, the organization will probably be run upon a new plan and several of the features which have been a source of annoyance and discontent and which have worked adversely for the organization in the past, will be eliminated.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivory Littlefield of West Kennebunk, Me., are visiting at the residence of Mr. E. S. Colby. Mr. Littlefield is a contemporary in railroad service with the late David Nason, or "Uncle David" as he was familiarly called, and entered the employ of the old Portsmouth, Saco and Portland road 49 years ago as a civil engineer. He is now station agent for the B. & M. at West Kennebunk.

A pair of horses attached to a barge in Road Commissioner Cheney's yard yesterday morning, feeling in high spirits, started before Mr. Cheney could mount the box. Not having the horses well in hand, they started at a lively pace, circled about the yard, and dashed down Water and Main Streets to Sargent's Corner, striking a fence on Mr. Charles Morton's premises and a tree near by and were finally captured by Marketman F. E. Higgins, who aided in checking their flight. Little or no damage was done to the horses or vehicle. Mr. Cheney, however, did not fare so well, as he was thrown forcibly to the ground near his store and for a few minutes was unconscious. He received quite severe bruises and was considerably shaken up in consequence, but happily sustained no permanent injuries.

According to the Boston papers, Mayor Matthews made some pretty plain and significant statements before the annual convention of the New England Water Works Association held at the United States Hotel. Among other things he is credited with saying is this:

"Never was it contemplated that there should be a permanent debt for the purpose of maintaining the municipal works, and that that debt should go on increasing. Yet not one in ten of these systems in Massachusetts is self-supporting. This is a serious thing. Municipal ownership is on trial. In the care of water you have an ideal case of municipal ownership. Everybody assumes though, that the system can be and is made self-supporting, but I question very much if the machinery has yet been invented to make it so."

A committee of three, consisting of John W. Richardson, Mary M. Groesbeck and Horace E. Barker, has been appointed by Wynona Lodge to arrange with other neighboring lodges for a union picnic.

Children's Day.

Children's day at the Congregational Church called forth a large number of the little people accustomed to attend services at that place. The church was prettily decorated with ferns, buttercups and daisies and small potted plants. The sermon at the morning service was given by the pastor from the text "Walk in love." Music appropriate to the occasion was rendered by the choir. Bibles were presented by the church to those children who attained the age of seven years since receiving baptism. They were: George Albert Rea, Amelia May Drew, Walter Guy Bassett, William Roberts. Seven young children also received baptism. In the evening a concert was held in the auditorium under the direction of the superintendent. There were responsive readings, singing by the choir and congregation, prayer by Mr. Frye, scripture reading by Assistant Superintendent Hathorn, and recitations by Misses Anna Field, Frances Ogden, Etta Phillips, Eva Handy; reading, Miss Sargent; recitations and motion song by the infant class. A talk to the children was given by Rev. Dr. Barnes. At the close of the concert, each child was presented with a potted plant and the larger pupils with small bouquets.

Good News from a North Andover Boy.

The Valley Advertiser of Grantsdale, Montana, in a recent issue, contains an article devoted to the subject of fruit raising, a reference to a former North Andover boy, Mr. Albert Downing, a son of Mr. Samuel Downing. The Advertiser says:

"Some of the finest fruit orchards of Ravalli County are little known, from the fact that they are a little off the regular line of travel, and partly from the fact that the owners are quiet, unostentatious men who forget that their work should speak for them. Of such is the now full-blomed and promising plant owned by Al Downing, just across the Bitter Root River from Grantsdale, and about two miles from the flourishing city of Hamilton, the Bitter Root metropolis. Mr. Downing commenced a poor boy a few years ago, taking up his claim when only a few settlers were scattered through the little edge of timber, until now his efforts are a great centre of attraction, especially when the mellow ripening beauties tempt the beholder to sample their flavor. Just at present the young trees which have borne slightly for a couple of years, are laden with, blue, pink, purple, and violet colored blossoms and plum, apple, cherry and pear are hanging on the branches as thick as bees in swarming time. At present there are about a thousand young trees fruiting and about a couple of thousand more preparing to complete the design."

Mr. Downing sought the West over 20 years ago and up to date has never revisited the scenes and friends of his boyhood. He will be remembered as the youngest son of Mr. Samuel Downing of this town. Mr. George Downing, who left town with his family a few years since, also has a ranch of the same character adjoining that of his brother. Currants and gooseberries abound in that region, and the indications are that the crop will be unusually large and of excellent quality.

Observance of Children's Day.

The attendants at the Methodist Church listened to a special sermon by Rev. Mr. Matthews Sabbath morning, which was particularly directed to the little people of the congregation.

In the evening Superintendent Markey conducted the exercises, which were presented in a manner agreeable to the audience and creditable to the school. The program, outside of singing by the choir and school, was as follows: Scripture reading, superintendent and school; prayer by the pastor; remarks, Fred Howes; recitation, Maggie Dame; remarks, C. W. Dillan; exercise, primary class; recitation, Albert Baughman; reading, Miss Shaw; exercise, Mrs. Walker's class; recitation, George Whitehead; recitation, Emma Baughman; exercise, Mrs. Jenkins' class; recitation, Tiny Littlefield; recitation, Ethel Walker; recitation, Miss Groesbeck; recitation, George Gile; recitation, Miss Paul; recitation, Mabel Jenness; recitation, Miss Brierley; remarks by the pastor; collection; benediction by the pastor. Cut flowers and potted plants were prettily and effectively arranged about the pulpit, chancel and sides of the church.

Wedding.

CLEVELAND-STEVENS.

Miss Gertrude Olney, daughter of Hon. Eben S. Stevens of Dudley, was married, Tuesday, to Mr. Clarence E. Cleveland, Superintendent of the Stevens Woolen Mills. The ceremony took place at the "Intervale," the residence of the bride's parents in Dudley, and was performed by Rev. E. W. Preble, pastor of the Universalist Church in Webster. The maid of honor was Miss Celia Stevens, sister of the bride. The ushers were Moses T. Stevens, Jr., North Andover, Richard Olney, Leicester, Henry C. Dresser, Southbridge, and Spaulding Bartlett, Webster.

The bride was charmingly attired in a white moire silk, tulle veil, bedecked with jewels and lilies of the valley, and she carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maids of honor wore white china silk.

Among those present from town were Hon. and Mrs. Moses T. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Stevens, Mr. J. H. D. Smith, Mrs. Anna M. Stevens, Hon. and Mrs. Oliver Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Sam D. Stevens, and the Misses Stevens.

POULTRY YARDS.

How to Fence the Chickens In and Keep Out Everything Else.

After trying various kinds of fencing for a yard a Virginia correspondent of American Cultivator writes that she has settled on poultry netting as combining all the desirable qualities, with few drawbacks. She describes her yard as follows:

My yard, in which I had as many as 337 chickens of various ages at one time, was 60 feet long by 15 feet wide. It is best to have a foot wide plank at the bottom all around, as small sized chicks can get through two inch poultry netting. Last winter I had no divisions in my yard, so to prevent little chickens from being crowded out and run over by big chicks I had to resort to various devices—small netting runs in front of coops, and some other things. Last winter I had this big yard subdivided into 10 yards by fences of cheesecloth tacked to a wide plank at the bottom and to a two inch wide strip at the top, with a gate made of the cheesecloth tacked on a frame in each division, so that I can easily pass from one to the other.

This dividing of broods does away with all necessity of wire covered runs in front of coops to keep the big chickens from trampling the others, and when chicks get large and the mother hen is taken from them will prevent overcrowding and consequent smothering. Each small yard is 6 feet wide by 15 feet long, which is a very good sized run for from 30 to 40 chicks.

Wherever there are chickens there are hawks, and when they catch even one fowl a day they diminish the profits considerably, as the early chickens net me over 50 cents each. So, to prevent their ravages, I had poles about 9 feet high from the surface of the ground planted all along through the middle of the yard lengthwise and strips nailed from one pole to another at the top. Over this ridge I threw twine, which I tied to the top of the netting fence on each side, the twine being about six inches apart, thus forming a kind of netting of twine shaped like the roof of a house. Of course this did not obstruct the sunshine, but it kept off all hawks. I saw one make two attempts one evening, darting down to catch a chicken, but it struck the twine each time, and I was not again troubled. For a permanent yard one might use light wire.

My yard is on the sunny side of a hill, which is all right in dry weather, but when it is wet it is very slippery, so I shall lay a plank walk to my yard, and also a walk in front of each coop, extending the whole length of the yard, being made in short lengths to fit each small yard. The gates, of course, must be opposite each other, so that one can step from one walk to another. These walks not only prevent one slipping, but keep the feet dry while walking.

A Homemade Sign.

On Lexington avenue near Eighty-third street stands in front of a shoemaker's shop a home painted sign that is pitifully comic. It would be a painfully deformed man indeed who could wear a boot shaped like the one thereon displayed, beneath which is the announcement that "Laddies shees" will be "half sold" and heeled for one price; "Childings and mans" for another. Apropos of this subject, I saw a shoemaker's sign the other day bearing the euphonic and appropriate name of Shintong.—Polly Pry in New York Recorder.

What She Keeps.

Miss Tweed—That Mrs. Chirp is horrid! I don't believe she can keep anything.
